

Port Colborne Field Target Club Results for November 3, 2012 Fifth Elmer Fudd Annual Hunter Match

The Fudd match has certainly become one of the matches with a high fun factor, allowing everyone to compete in the one division. Some use guns that they have never or seldom use in a match and with the elimination of range finding, added to the vast majority simply using mil-dots for aiming points, things move quickly. With the temperature in the low forties with some wind, most were very happy to be sitting still for a shorter period of time.

The course consisted of 17 lanes set up with two targets in each lane and no kill-zone smaller than one inch. We had 15 regular lanes where competitors could shoot as they choose, one standing only lane and one kneeling lane. Sixty-eight shots, scored for hunter, meant that the top score possible was 136. After some last minute changes, we ended up with nineteen shooters, eleven pcp and eight in the piston class.

It was nice to see two new shooters for this match; Erin and Andy both did well on their first try, in conditions that were a little tougher than normal. Most people in both divisions cooperated and avoided tied score. We ended up with one tie and the guys decided to flip a coin to decide since we were all inside warming up, eating and shooting the breeze.

As the results show, we had some great shooting in both pcp and piston classes. The difficulty of the match was not calculated, but the number of 35 yards and up targets sorted out the shooters quite well.

After the meal, awards were handed out and Angie and Janis cleaned up the clubhouse. Thanks to Janis and Angie for dealing out the food and taking care of the kitchen. Coming in to a hot meal certainly adds to the appeal of the Fudd.

Bill and Larry were a great help in assisting the guys, who set up targets, tear them down after most had hit the road. Thanks guys.

After some discussion, Dennis and I have decided to move the Fudd match to the first weekend in October next year, when the weather is usually milder and fewer are away on hunting trips. Mark your calendar for October 5th, 2013.

The next match will be a pistol FT match, indoors at Burlington and that schedule will be sent out very soon, once the dates are approved. Get those pistol rigs ready; the indoor season may start sooner than you think.
